

Day 5: What do you remember?

Last week...

Use a stopwatch, timer or phone. Can you time one minute?

Yesterday...

Why do we use tally
charts?

L:O I can use a tally chart to record my ideas.

Today you are going to come up with your own tally chart ideas. It can be tricky so here are some ideas.

How many clothes? Coats.. pairs of shoes etc..

Out the window.. How many cars, trees, birds?

How many toys? Cars, dolls, etc...

You can do more or less rows than 4...
decide how many you want to record!

[illegible]

Now tell your grown up all about your tally chart... what did you find out?

most

tally

marks

least

same

You can use people's names in a tally chart... can you read these names and say how many times they could throw and catch a ball?

Name	Number of times throwing and catching the ball.
Tom
Ben
Jen

Time to show off... Let's use our learning from last week and this week at the same time.

Person's name	Number of times around the room.

Can you choose a room in you house to walk around?
One person is going to have the timer and time 1 minute. Make sure you can remember how to time 1 minute before you start!
The other person is going to walk safely around a room. See how many people you can get to do it...